U.S. OSTEOPATHIC LICENSURE SUMMARY

SEPTEMBER 2019

HOW TO USE THIS SUMMARY

INTRODUCTION

The Osteopathic Licensing Summary contains relevant information about the licensing requirements in each state. DOs who graduated more than 25 years ago, with fewer “standardized” credentials, may be subject to different standards of eligibility for licensure. Their questions should be addressed to the specific licensing board involved.

Generally, a license can be obtained in one of two ways:

1. Examination administered by the board. The board may prepare its own examination or administer an examination that has been prepared and purchased from a specialized agency. Today, the United States Medical Licensing Examination (USMLE) and the Comprehensive Osteopathic Medical Licensing Examination (COMLEX-USA) are the most widely used tests.
2. Reciprocity or endorsement of a license previously received from another state. No applicant is ever entitled to automatic reciprocity, for all licensing boards reserve the right to exercise discretion individually in evaluating an applicant's personal, professional, and moral qualifications. Also, the license presented for reciprocity or endorsement must usually have been issued on the basis of a written examination. Many licensing boards are not specific about the states with which they would reciprocate; while we have attempted to list as much reciprocity information as we have, DOs having a question about the eligibility of a particular state's license should address it to the specific board, giving details. At one time a majority of states had basic science requirements and administered a written examination. This explains why certain boards will reciprocate with certificates once issued by states that have now abolished their basic science law.

Pre-professional education requirements are not described, although they are retained in many licensing statutes. Some statutes even continue to specify the extent of a high school education that an applicant must have. The admissions requirements of all accredited osteopathic colleges serve to insure that virtually all recipients of the DO degree now have a minimum of three years in college, and most have a BA or BS degree.

Fees have been given where information was available, but since fees change more frequently than any other requirement, users should expect to find occasional changes, and should, of course, rely on the latest information supplied by a particular board.

MEANING OF TERMS

Scope of practice - Many states do not adequately define the scope of a physician's practice rights in their licensing statute, be he/she a DO or a MD. Depending on the state, a DO may receive a license to practice “medicine and surgery,” “osteopathic medicine and surgery,” “osteopathy and surgery,” or “osteopathy,” and all may convey the same rights. For brevity, the AOA uses the term “unlimited” practice rights, which for practical purposes, means the treatment of human ailments, etc., by any and all methods; and can be comparably described as the same rights received by MDs. If the scope of practice is not listed under an individual state's requirements, it is “unlimited.”

Educational requirements - As previously indicated, this heading is usually limited to summarizing the state's definition of an approved osteopathic college. As a practical matter, graduation from an AOA accredited college should satisfy the professional educational requirements of all states.

Postgraduate training - This section details the number of years and the type of programs that will satisfy the postgraduate training requirement. All states require at least one year of postgraduate training. Some states require two or three years of training.

Board - This term refers to the licensing board empowered to recommend or actually issue osteopathic licenses. There are basically three types of boards: (1) DO - composed entirely of osteopathic physicians and has the responsibility of granting unlimited licenses to DOs; (2) MD - composed entirely of MDs but having responsibility for granting unlimited licenses to both DOs and MDs; (3) Composite - composed of DOs and MDs in varying ratios, but usually with a majority of MDs, and has the responsibility of granting unlimited licenses to DOs and MDs. In addition to the physicians who sit on state licensing boards, public members are now included on the board, regardless of the board composition.

Board address - This section lists the official name, contact person, address and phone number for each state's licensing board.

Osteopathic members - Those DOs who sit on the state licensing boards are included in this section.

Sunset laws - Many states include "sunset" provisions when enacting licensing boards. In such cases, the authority of the board expires, or "sunset," on a given date unless specifically re-authorized by the legislature.

Examinations accepted - This section lists the examinations accepted by state licensing boards. Currently, the two national examinations recognized by state licensing boards are the COMLEX-USA and the USMLE. Both the COMLEX exam and the USMLE are three-part national examinations consisting of both written examinations and clinical skills examinations. COMLEX Level 1 or USMLE Step 1 is usually taken during the second year of medical school; COMLEX Level 2 or USMLE Step 2, both the written portion and the Performance Evaluation, is usually taken in the fourth year of medical school; and COMLEX Level 3 or USMLE Step 3 can be taken during the first year of postgraduate training. So when it states that an examination, i.e., COMLEX, USMLE, etc., is recognized, it means all the Levels or Steps must be successfully passed.

The National Board of Osteopathic Medical Examiners (NBOME) develops and administers a complete and comprehensive examination program for DOs -- the Comprehensive Osteopathic Medical Licensing Examination (COMLEX). The COMLEX replaced the NBOME exam. The United States Medical Licensing Examination (USMLE) is the one, single medical licensing examination for allopathic physicians and replaced the Federation Licensing Examination (FLEX) and the National Board Medical Examination (NBME).

License fee - This area contains the cost for securing an unlimited license. Fees change more frequently than any other requirement, so be sure to check with the specific licensing board for exact amounts.

Federation Credentials Verification Service (FCVS) - The Federation of State Medical Boards (FSMB) created the FCVS to verify a physician's core credentials -- identity, medical education and training, and examination history. While a majority of states will accept the FCVS, there are some licensure jurisdictions that will not accept the FCVS. These jurisdictions that will not accept the FCVS require direct source verification for physician licensure.

Reciprocity or Endorsement - See the appropriate paragraph in the Introduction.

Special licenses - This section lists information about availability of temporary permits granting practice privileges pending the issuance of unlimited license.

Renewal - States require periodical re-registration. Dates and fees are given when known.

CME requirement - Continuing medical education shall be in an area of the physician's practice, reflect the professional needs of the licensee in order to meet the health care needs of the public and include at least one contact hour of training or education in each of the following topics: (A) Infectious diseases, including, but not limited to, acquired immune deficiency syndrome and human immunodeficiency virus, (B) risk management, (C) sexual assault, and (D) domestic violence. Additionally, for registration periods beginning on and after October 1, 2010, coursework in cultural competency is also required.

Osteopathic Continuous Certification (OCC) - OCC is a process in which AOA board certified DOs can maintain currency and demonstrate competency in their specialty area. Each AOA specialty certifying board developed OCC requirements implemented as of Jan. 1, 2013. OCC is comprised of 5 components: 1) unrestricted licensure; 2) lifelong learning and continuing medical education; 3) cognitive assessment; 4) practice performance assessment and improvement; and 5) continuous AOA membership. Some states have begun to accept OCC, or the related Maintenance of Certification (MOC), requirements as acceptable in place of CME requirements.

Malpractice insurance - Information regarding the state requirements for and availability of malpractice insurance coverage has been provided by some states. For information about specific insurance carriers, contact the divisional osteopathic society in the appropriate state.

Those interested in additional information about states' licensing requirements may contact the individual licensing boards or AOA's Director of State Government Affairs, 142 East Ontario, Chicago IL 60611; (800)-621-1773 ext. 8185.

NATIONAL BOARD OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICAL EXAMINERS, INC

The National Board of Osteopathic Medical Examiners (NBOME) is incorporated under the laws of the state of Indiana. It consists of not more than 25 members at-large from the osteopathic profession. Members must be osteopathic physicians in good standing of the American Osteopathic Association, educators/clinicians of recognized prominence and shall have been licensed to practice as an osteopathic physician for at least five years prior to appointment.

Board members are nominated by the directors of the National Board of Osteopathic Medical Examiners, approved by the Board of Trustees of the American Osteopathic Association, and elected by the National Board of Osteopathic Medical Examiners, to serve for a period of three years.

The officers of the Board consist of a President/CEO, Chief Operations Officer, Vice President of Testing & Research and Secretary-Treasurer, selected from and elected by the membership of the Board at each spring session, and serve until their successors are qualified and elected.

The Board has established an advisory panel or test committee of content experts for each examination. These experts must be duly nominated by a member and approved by the Board. They are appointed annually to serve under the direction of the respective test construction committee chairman.

REGULATIONS AND REQUIREMENTS

The Comprehensive Osteopathic Medical Licensing Examination (COMLEX-USA) examination is divided into three levels. With the exception of Level 2 – PE, all parts of the exam are computer-based.

COMLEX-USA Level 1

Constructed according to the COMLEX-USA examination blueprint. Candidates are expected to demonstrate basic science knowledge relevant to medical problems as defined by the Level 1 blueprint. Level 1 emphasizes the scientific concepts and principles necessary for understanding the mechanisms of health, medical problems and disease processes.

Level 1, taken in one-day, is a problem- and symptom-based assessment integrating the basic medical sciences of anatomy, behavioral science, biochemistry, microbiology, osteopathic principles, pathology, pharmacology, physiology and other areas of medical knowledge as they are relevant to solving medical problems. The examination consists of two four-hour test sessions, each containing questions related to diverse clinical presentations and principles.

COMLEX-USA Level 2

COMLEX Level 2 consists of two-parts: the Cognitive Evaluation (CE) and the Performance Evaluation (PE):

COMLEX-USA Level 2-CE

Constructed according to the COMLEX-USA examination blueprint. Candidates are expected to demonstrate knowledge of clinical concepts and principles involved in all steps of medical problem-solving as defined by Dimension II. Level 2-CE emphasizes the medical concepts and principles necessary for making appropriate medical diagnoses through patient history and physical examination findings.

Level 2-CE, taken in one-day, is a problem-based and symptom-based assessment integrating the clinical disciplines of emergency medicine, family medicine, internal medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, osteopathic principles, pediatrics, psychiatry, surgery, and other areas necessary to solve medical problems as defined by the Level 2-CE blueprint. A similar problem-symptom based approach is used in Level 2 and in Level 1. The examination consists of two four-hour test sessions, each containing questions related to diverse clinical presentations and principles.

COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE

For case selection, Level 2-PE applies the Dimension I categories from the COMLEX-USA blueprint. The content (case selection) of Level 2-PE is crossed with the following axes:

Patient Presentation Axis

Standardized patients present in simulated ambulatory medical settings with problems and symptoms that are either acute, chronic, or provide opportunities for health promotion and disease prevention. In addition, the patients encountered are balanced to meet the examination specifications for patient gender and age as a reflection of national osteopathic physician practice patterns based on national survey data as well as expert judgment. In addition, the demographic and cultural profiles of patients are instrumental considerations in the case development process.

Osteopathic Medical Practice Axis

In any examination form, the following clinical skills are evaluated in the majority of the standardized patient encounters:

Biomedical/Biomechanical Domain

- Osteopathic Principles and/or Osteopathic Manipulative Treatment

Clinical Content Axis

Based on Dimension I of the COMLEX-USA blueprint, expert judgment, and national survey data of osteopathic physician practice patterns, candidates will encounter standardized patients presenting with the symptoms, problems, or complaints that are common to primary care osteopathic medical practice. These include:

- Patients with Neuromusculoskeletal Symptoms/Problems
- Patients with Respiratory Symptoms/Problems
- Patients with Gastrointestinal Symptoms/Problems
- Patients with Cardiovascular Symptoms/Problems
- Patients with Other Symptoms/Problems

COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE

A one-day examination of clinical skills where each candidate will encounter twelve standardized patients over the course of a seven-hour examination day. The examination takes place at NBOME's National Center for Clinical Skills Testing in Conshohocken, Pennsylvania (bordering Philadelphia, Pennsylvania). Examination design, test specifications, testing format and other details are available in the 2005-2006 Orientation Guide for COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE on the NBOME's website. A 28-minute DVD Instructional Program on COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE has been provided to the Office of the Dean at each of the Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine, and is also available for viewing on NBOME's website.

Level 2-PE is the clinical skills component of the COMLEX-USA. Consistent with NBOME's mission to protect the public, Level 2-PE helps to fulfill the public and licensing authority mandate for enhanced patient safety through the documentation of the clinical skills proficiency of graduates from osteopathic medical schools. The Performance Evaluation augments the written COMLEX-USA-Level 2-CE of osteopathic medical knowledge by providing an assessment of clinical skills. These clinical skills are: doctor-patient communication, interpersonal skills and professionalism, medical history-taking and physical examination skills, osteopathic principles and osteopathic manipulative treatment, and written communication skills (including synthesis of clinical findings, integrated differential diagnosis and formulation of a diagnostic and treatment plan). These patient-centered skills are evaluated in the context of clinical encounters with standardized patients, and are required to be personally performed as appropriate in a timely, efficient, safe, and effective manner.

COMLEX-USA Level 3

Constructed according to the COMLEX-USA examination blueprint. Candidates are expected to demonstrate knowledge of clinical concepts and principles necessary for solving medical problems as independently practicing osteopathic generalist physicians.

Level 3 emphasizes the medical concepts and principles required to make appropriate patient management decisions. Level 3, taken in one-day, is a problem-based and symptom-based assessment integrating the clinical disciplines of emergency medicine, family medicine, internal medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, osteopathic principles, pediatrics, psychiatry, surgery, and other areas necessary to solve medical problems as defined by the Level 3 blueprint.

Level 3, like Level 2-CE and Level 1, are problem-based and symptom-based in presentation. The examination consists of two four-hour test sessions, each containing questions related to diverse clinical presentations and principles.

As of July 1, 2004, all candidates are required to pass COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE as a condition for eligibility to take COMLEX-USA Level 3, with the exception that candidates who graduated from a college of osteopathic medicine accredited by the AOA COCA prior to January 1, 2005 will be exempt from the requirement of passing COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE if they pass COMLEX-USA Level 2-CE prior to June 30, 2005. All other COMLEX-USA Level 3 eligibility requirements remain in effect. In addition, candidates who are unsuccessful in passing COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE cannot re-take the examination for a period of 90 days from their prior examination date, and may only re-take the examination a maximum of three times in any 12-month period.

The COMLEX-USA Levels must be taken in sequence. For example Level 2 cannot be taken before Level 1. However, Level 2-CE and Level 2-PE may be taken in any sequence. If a candidate has failed the CE Examination, he or she may still choose to take the PE Examination, and if the candidate has failed the PE Examination, he or she may still take the CE Examination. Both the CE and the PE Examinations must be passed in order to take Level 3.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Registration/ Scheduling

All candidates must use the online registration system to: register/pay for an examination, schedule or reschedule an examination, cancel or withdraw from an examination; receive refunds or credits, obtain the schedule of test dates, and choose a location at which to test. It is also where the candidate will find the most current information about policies and procedures applicable to testing and other items of interest to candidates.

Registration Code

After a list of candidates approved to take the COMLEX examination is received by the NBOME from the dean of an osteopathic school, an 11-digit secure code will be mailed to each candidate. This code is required only for the first access to the registration system at the NBOME website (www.nbome.org).

NBOME Registration

Upon entry of the registration code, a candidate will be prompted to create a username and a password and verify personal information. Registration will be completed once payment by credit card has been entered and approved. Payment must be completed online with a credit card before an examination date can be scheduled.

Scheduling an Examination Date and Test Center

Following registration at the NBOME website, a candidate may schedule an examination date (appointment) through the NBOME website. (Please note that there may be a slight delay between registering with the NBOME and the ability to schedule an examination date on the NBOME website). Candidates may register and schedule an examination as early as six (6) months in advance of a scheduled test date for COMLEX-USA Level 1, Level 2-CE, or Level 3, and up to 12 months in advance for COMLEX-USA Level 2-PE, provided that they are eligible. Candidates are strongly advised to schedule at least 90 days before their desired test session to maximize the chance of obtaining their desired testing date and site. Candidates may not schedule a test less than 120 hours in advance of the session test date under any circumstances.

COMPREHENSIVE OSTEOPATHIC MEDICAL VARIABLE PURPOSE EXAMINATION - USA (COMVEX-USA)

The COMVEX is an instrument offered to osteopathic physicians who need to demonstrate current osteopathic medical knowledge for licensing purposes. As a measurement tool, the COMVEX provides the state medical licensing boards with a clear evaluation of a candidate's knowledge of current osteopathic medical practices.

The COMVEX is available to candidates through the individual state licensing boards. The examination is created under the auspices of the National Board of Osteopathic Medical Examiners by test construction and review committees composed of a variety of osteopathic physicians from a range of medical disciplines.

SPECIAL PURPOSE EXAMINATION (SPEX)

The Federation of State Medical Boards administers the Special Purpose Examination (SPEX). The purpose of SPEX is to re-examine specific physicians for whom a licensing board determines the need for a demonstration of medical knowledge. It is a one-day examination composed of multiple choice questions, which are specially selected to test physicians who are five or more years beyond medical school graduation.
